IEMA Leading with Environmental Sustainability

The IEMA Leading with Environmental Sustainability course offers a crucial 4-hour strategy session for business leaders who are responsible for defining their organisation's longer term business strategy.

Climate change and nature collapse are existential crises. Ignoring them will not make them go away. Understanding sustainability is critical to successfully developing and evolving an organisation's strategy.

The course will provide an opportunity to reflect on the organisation's existing approach to sustainability and set a new strategy for adaptation and resilience in the face of climate change and nature's collapse.
